

DES

DES (diethylstilbestrol) is a synthetic estrogen which was frequently given to pregnant women between 1941 and 1971, mostly to prevent miscarriage. It has been linked to health problems in the children of the women given the drug, including fertility and pregnancy problems, and, rarely, vaginal cancer. In this workshop we will provide up-to-date information on DES and discuss ways for DES-exposed women to get emotional support and adequate medical care. The video: DES: The Timebomb Drug will be shown.

Date:

Time:

Place:

This workshop is being presented by the Vancouver Women's Health Collective and is made possible through funding from the Health Promotion Directorate of Health and Welfare Canada.