Thousands of islanders to dine out and fight AIDS for the 3rd annual Dining Out For Life, sponsored by Stella Artois

Duncan – By eating dinner at Bistro 161, Genoa Bay Café, or Grapevine On The Bay on Thursday, March 27th, patrons will enjoy great food and help raise money for AIDS Vancouver Island (AVI).

“The success of the event depends on getting the word out because the amount of money raised is linked to how many people participate by ‘Dining Out’ on March 27,” said Katrina Jensen, executive director of AIDS Vancouver Island. The funds will support AVI’s HIV/AIDS prevention and support programs.

Jensen and a team of volunteers have garnered support from more than 60 restaurants across Vancouver Island to participate in the island’s third annual Dining Out For Life, an international fundraiser for HIV/AIDS. On March 27th, participating restaurants will donate 25% of their food sales to AIDS Vancouver Island. In addition to the restaurants’ donations, diners are encouraged to make individual donations. And the generosity doesn’t stop there – Stella Artois will contribute $1 from every sale of their beer at participating restaurants on March 27.

“There is still no cure for HIV/AIDS, and Dining Out For Life helps those impacted to live with dignity and hope,” said Jensen. “We are so grateful to the public, the restaurants and to our sponsors for their generous support.”

AVI and its island-wide team encourage islanders to join in the fight against AIDS by “Dining Out For Life” on March 27. Joining in is easy! By enjoying a meal out on this date, community members can contribute to a great cause, and individuals and families benefit from much needed programs and services that will improve the quality of their lives.

AIDS Vancouver Island has provided community health services focused on the prevention and treatment of HIV/AIDS and hepatitis C at locations across Vancouver Island since 1985.
